Brighton Beach track to Gravesend, with sport. The session at the seaside course, though brief, was productive of sensational incidents, chief of which was the resurrection of Africander, the champion three-year-old of last season.

The Star Ruby colt won his two races from the great Westerner, McChesney, in much the same style as he was wont to take Irish Lad into camp when the two were struggling for the three-year-old crown. The dual defeat of "Big Mac" entirely disposes of the great attraction. The sturdy Hibernian giant captured first prize with a total of 18 points. wonderful ability at stretch running. In Jerry Foley of the New West Side A. both of the races McChesney was near enough to his rival when they straightened out for he wire to mow him down if possessed of the phenomenal speed for which his adherents give him credit. Though hard driven in each instance, the Western champion could ot gain an inch on Africander, although the early pace had been slow enough to allow both of the popularity of long distance races. Though to practised eyes it was apparent that Major Daingerfield had shot his bolt in the middie of the backstretch, this was not evident to the casual racegoer, and the yell for each of the trio was deafening as the tailled to his standard last saturday. There is a chance, however, for the three cracks to meet on the final day of the Gravosend meeting in the Oriental Handicap at a mile and a quarter.

included Charley Dwyer, for whom he won a fortune last year, only to lose it last spring by his mediocre performances. His old owner had a big wager down on the Star Ruby colt, and there was much joy in Sheepsead Bay over his victory.

Another feature of the Brighton meeting ras the success of W. Davis, a Western jockey, who led the riders at the meeting with seven rinning mounts, one second and four thirds. Most of Davis's mounts were at liberal odds in the betting and his supporters won handsomely. On getaway day, however, just when the public was beginning to follow the etback and landed in the money only once two seconds and one third. He appears to in prosperity, and since he came to the front nas ridden consistently and successfully whenever his mounts have been of any

In commenting on Pretty Polly's victory in the St. Leger the Field states that never during the present generation has the great ce been won more easily. Pretty Polly placed on a pedestal as the greatest filly modern times, in the following paragraph: "At the moment fourteen successes, with money value of well over £80,000 is Pretty Polly's record, and one is now tempted to whink that she is quite the best filly of modern times, if not the best which has ever trod the turf. Sceptre was brilliant at times and modrate at times, but Pretty Polly is always orilliant, and in her case there has never next two. Bardgett tried to pace Cadwell into the lead, but Root and Menus Bedell passed them on the backstretch. Root won the race. Lee complained to the referee about Menus Bedell's alleged foul riding, and other riders declared that Root and Bedell had been guilty of "teaming" without making any announcement, but nothing was done to either of them.

Edward Rupprecht, the big Bay View Whieelmen rider, took things easy in the amateur miss and out" contest, and when he and Charles Franks were the only survivors he sprinted away from his opponent. The spectators were very much dissatisfied with the work of the judges in this race. McCallum, the lad who won the last irvington-Millburn road race, had the limit mark of 65 yards in the final heat of the half mile handicap and led by fifty yards at the bell, but Billington outsprinted him and won by two and a half lengths.

Half Mile Novice, Handicap—Won by O. S. been any need of the electric rush which characterized Sceptre's best efforts. Until Pretty Polly came upon the scene we were inclined to place Sceptre, Achievement and La Fléche as the three best fillies of the last forty years (Virago was before our time, but she was, perhaps, as good as any of the stand on a higher pedestal than any of them nary sequence as the Irish mare has done. and it is extremely probable that she will remain undefeated to the end of her running areer. All that can be urged against her that at the present she has not met any older norses, but she stands right out from the three year-olds of the present season, just as she did among the two-year-olds of last year."
Two days after the St. Leger Pretty Polly scored her fifteenth victory in the Park Hil A brilliant card has been provided to open the sport at Gravesend to-day. The Junior Champion, for two-year-olds, about six furongs, and the First Special, at one mile and quarter, are the main attractions. Unfor-Sydney Paget did not name his great filly Tradition for the big two-year-old it, so there will be no repetition of the duel in the Futurity between Tradition and James R. Keene's Sysonby. The latter is reenferced by Wild Mint and Von Tromp, making it appear that the blue and white spots will have a mortgage on the purse. Sysonby has to carry top weight, 127 pounds while Sydney Paget's Diamond gets in with five pounds less, and the same owner's Jonquil nd Cairngorm with 110 pounds. G. E. Madden has entered Siglight and Hot Shot, and se three owners supply all the entries. The first special, at a mile and a quarter, will bring together Stalwart and Beldame. at weight for age. Broomstick also must not be overlooked as a contender, while the older division is represented by John San-ford's sterling racehorse Caughnawaga. Pulsus and Ort Wells make up the field of six. In the first race, a handicap for all ages, at six furlongs, Shot Gun is top weight, with 129 pounds. Alan-a-Dale has 127 and Lady Amelia and Gay Boy 125. Leonidas is in or pounds. Every expected good thing went wrong at the Speedway yesterday morning. The crowd present numbered several thousand, for the card of sport gave promise of being high class. After reading the defi of Col. W. C. Greene on behalf of Florence Wilton, James A. Murphy withdrew Don Derby, Remarkable Weight Throwing by Irish grounds yesterday with a set of open games, and a crowd of about 2,500 partisans of the 2.04%, from his matinee engagement of Saturday and was at the Speedway bright and "nursery" were present. The day was fine, early yesterday to upheld the pacing cham-pionship. Unfortunately the boat on which and the track, although open for improve-ment, was in fair shape. The feature of the day, however, was the all around weight throwing contest with John Flansgan as the Col. Greene journeyed from his country home before he reached the drive with Florence Wilton and the other horses in his stable. After waiting until noon, Mr. Murphy sent Don Derby to the stable, so the meeting between the two cracks had to go over. Several other special races had the same mis-

The veteran trotter David B., 2:09%, driven by J. W. Cornish, and Cobwebs, 2:12, driven by Nathan Straus, gave the crewd the best race of the morning. Each horse has been a prominent factor in Speedway sport since the drive was first thrown open to the public, Cobwebs being now 16 years old and David B. 15. The enthusiasm of the crowd was spontaneous when the two veterans came down the stretch head and head, each owner driv-ing vigorously to help his favorite to victory. Cobwebs was hailed as the winner by a head.

Closely following came another brush that pleased the crowd. Mr. Murphy took the reins behind Wesley R., 2:10, and sent him against Alexander Frankenstein's Fred. W., 2 0834. It proved the best race of the day among the pacing contingent, Wesley R. winning by not more than the length of his neck.

Reuben S., 2:09%, driven by J. W. Lawrence very much in evidence. In his first start the bay trotter Upton, driven by H. A. Pierce; the bay pacer Lulu L., driven by Mr. Laughlin: Gray Billy, 2:16%, on a break; and Freelin; Gray Billy, 2:16%, on a break; and Free-land, 2:17%, also on a break and out of the contest. Later Reuben S. beat Freeland single hand easily, as the two horses are not in the same class. When fleuben S., 2:06%, and Fred W., 2:08%, came together the crowd saw two good brushes, with an even break. Reuben S. was full of go and he beat fred W. decisively. Owing to lack of condition Reuben S. could not carry the clip in the second brush, and Fred W. beat him just as decisively. decisively.

Alexander Newberger, with his pacer Better Luck, began the morning auspiciously by defeating Ben Lichtenberg's handsome pacer Billy Palmer. 2:25%. Then Better Luck was started against his rival, George King, driven by J. Chaimowitz, but just after passing the quarter mile post a valve blew out of a tire on Mr. Newberger's wagon, and that put him out of business for the morning. George King made a winning record by defeating the chestnut pacer Harry H., driven by Henry Henman. George King also won from J. Saron's Maud Sherman, driven by Elmer Stevens.

Harry H. evened up matters in part by winning from the pacer Isaac Davenport, driven by T. Greenbaum. The latter, in turn, evened up his score by defeating Maud Sherman twice and later on by winning twice from the veteran pacer Smiler Colfax, 2:16½, driven by Mr. Schwartz. After his defeat by Better Luck, Billy Palmer proved a good winner, defeating among others the pacer Harry H. and the trotter Nelly Bell, driven by Charles Rothschild.

A. R. Myer's pacer Peter H., 2:26%, was sent but one trip at speed, but that was a winning one. His competitor was the big pacer Startle Willies 2:14½, driven by W. W. Cochran, and Peter H. won in a driving finish. The bay mare Jessie J., driven by W. W. Cochran, and Peter H. won in a driving finish. The bay mare Jessie J., driven by William Duffy, was an added starter and finished in the rear. Mr. Kennedy, behind the brown from Isnac Hopper's black trotter Too Soon, 2:24½. from Isaac Hopper's black trotter Too Soon, 2:24%.
Charles Welland, behind the pacer Johnny Agan, 2:05%, won one of the best brushes of the day defeating Dr. H. D. Gill's Lady Direct, 2:16%, by not more than neck and shoulders. Later, Johnny Agan had two brushes with the obestnut pacer Fred W., 2:08%, but the later was leg weary from earlier fast work, and Johnny Agan was an easy winner. Before meeting Johnny Agan, Lady Direct won a nice brush from David B.

Henry Phillips, behind the bay trotter James Shevlin, 2:13% was an easy winner over the bay trotter Norman S., driven by Max Simon. Later James Shevlin was sent against the trotter Juno T., 2:18%, and then he finished in second place. Charles W. Straus, behind the bay trotter Belton, Jr., and H. A. Pierce with the trotter Upton had a keen race, Upton finally going to a bad break and Belton, Jr., to victory. When Relton, Jr., was sent to tackle John F. Cocker-lil's team, Gracie and Miss Hibbard, the Reiton, Jr., was sent to tackle John F. Cocker-ill's team, Gracie and Miss Hibbard, the latter won in a ding-dong finish. Samuel Bloch sent the pacer Bloycle Girl, 2-20%, one brush against the chestnut pacer King Tom, 2:19%, and carried him to a break and won. King Tom then was sent to tackle James A. Murphy's Wesley B., but again made a break and was beaten.

Contest, Say Englishme Interesting comment on the America's Cup racing is made in the Yachting World, and evidently the subject and possible devel-opments are engaging a good share of the attention of yachtsmen on the other side. The effect of America's Cup racing on their home racing is also discussed by the Yacht-ing World as follows: "Probably the very last complaint the modern racing man would expect to hear would be a complaint that there was any single phase of America's Cup racing which does not get at least all the attention to which it is entitled. With the newspapers of two continents vying with each other as to which can offer the fullest and most minute account of the developments which go to the making of a Cup contest and recording every trifling incident which takes place-to say nothing of the incidents which happen only in the imagination of the writers—it might be reckoned that the press and public both discharge themselves in full of any claim which the contest may have upon their interest and attention. While it may be fully conceded that recent Cup contests have been followed with remarkable enthusiasm by thousands of people who would be puzzled to distinguish between a marlin spike and a spinnaker of people who would be puzzled to distinguish between a marlin spike and a spinnaker boom, and with equal interest and more discrimination by the whole of the yachting fraternity, there is still an important bearing of the contest which seems to have been too long ignored. This phase lies in the question of the relationship which the America's cupraces have had to our sport at home and the relationship in which the contest might have been placed.

"Any consideration which our racing men have given to this relationship—except in the very enthusiasm of the contest—has been largely founded on a basis of antagonism; for it is a common attitude to regard the Cup contest as a disturbing element in local sport, and to blame it for most of the failures and shortcomings which come our way. If this contention were altogether true it would become a question whether, in view of this circumstance, the contest were worth continuing. As a matter of fact, however, the assertion is one which even the few who fully believe it would find difficult to substantiate.

"In popular interest and general importance the home fixtures undoubtedly suffer from being badly overshadowed whenever there is a Cup race above the horizon; but these are matters so little courted by yachting men that they can scarce be considered as of vital importance. For the rest, all that a Cuprace does is to saddle one or other of our designers with a task which is big, but has never been quite big enough to prevent him meeting all the other calls which might be made upon him. This and the withdrawal of a skipper and crew and a racing owner who might or might not otherwise figure in the home flext is practically the disturbance which the America's Cup contest, at its worst, makes for local sport.

"At its best, however, it might be made not be a commartively negative quality but

America's Cup contest, at its worst, makes for local sport.

"At its beet, however, it might be made not only a comparatively negative quality, but an actual power for good, and this is the development which might reasonably claim more consideration than has yet been given to it. There is a general agreement that the winning of the Cup and the necessity of defending it on this side would give the sport such a fillip as it has not yet had; but we have for the most part been content to sit down and wait until this good fortune comes to us.

"In the meantime, however, we might do well to consider whether the winning of the Cup, or even the attempt to win it, might not be so wrought into the events of our home season as to give us a foretaste of the advantages which would come to us with success. No time was ever so fitting as the present for making the attempt. Recent America's Cup contests have, by reason of the nature of the yachts required for it, been quite apart from the ordinary racing. There are indications of a change with the next contest. There are excellent reasons for the belief that a reformed rule of measurement will be applied to the next challenge and defence of this trophy, and this change, if judiciously handled, may easily be made to bring the Cup racing more nearly in touch with our ordinary yachting than ever it has been since Thistle went out from the Clyde.

"It is probably not too much to say that our American friends are almost as tired of building racing caricatures for the defence of the Cup as we are of producing them to carry our challenges. It is not unnatural that they should in this transition stage be something averse from laying down the conditions of the challenge which they would be prepared to accept. The adoption of the reformed measurement rule for ordinary club racing shows, however, a desire to come to the conditions at which we have been aiming, and their intimation that they are prepared to consider new conditions for any challenge that may be lodged may be taken as the f "At its best, however, it might be made not

SCRIMMAGING AT COLUMBIA.

Second Week of Foetball Practice Begins
To-day With Hard Work.

Columbia's second week of football practice begins this afternoon on South Field. Hard sorimmage practice is the order of the day, under the direction of Head Coach Morley, with Weekes, Knapp, Bruce and Wolff as assistants. The scrimmaging will be kept up all week, even including friday, the day before the Union game, which opens Columbia's season at American League Park. From Coach Morley's selection this afternoon the probable make-up of the 'varsity against Union may be learned. It is certain that at least four former 'varsity men will have their positions back, and the new material will be used to fill in other places for a time, so that Morley can see from the work of the candidates in a real game how much use they are going to be in the squad.

Those persons who have seen American League Park only as a baseball field will be surprised to see the changes that are being made. A gridfron is being laid out north and south. The best seats for football are the bleachers along the line of left field. Another stand is to be built for the bigger games, directly opposite, which is to hold about 5,000 persons. It is estimated that when all improvements have been made about 21,000 persons can sit and see the games in comfort.

VICTORY WILL ROUND OUT A WONDERFUL RECORD.

The Season's Successes of the Harvard Youth-Varied Opinions on the Value of the World's Championship Title-Conditions for Women's National Event.

This morning the Olympic golf championship of the world will begin in St. Louis with a thirty-six hole qualifying round. There will be fully 100 starters, but with Archibale Graham and A. Havemeyer the most prominent of the Eastern starters, the local interest will hinge largely on the fortunes of H. Chan-dler Egan, the amateur champion. Stuart Stickney, the St. Louis champion, and a num-ber of players in the West are quite capable of defeating Egan should the latter fail to be on his best game.

In the national championship Egan did not show his true game until the final, for even in the qualifying round his driving was erratic, and he had to save himself repeatedly by brilliant work with the irons and in putting. Should the champion suc-ceed in winning the Olympio tournament it will be the climax of a season that must have been a strain on the mental and physical resources of this youth of twenty-Egan was born on Aug. 21, 1884. On the other hand, as the golfers said of young Tom Morris, the knowledge that for every bad shot Egan has at command the perfect recovery may make golf easier to him than to the less masterly exponents of the game. On this account even though stale, Egan may romp through the Olympic as though it were child's play. This season to date Egan has played in thirty-six matches, of which he has won thirty, lost five and halved one. His record is: April 21—Won qualifying round at Lakewood, 87, 78—185, and won cup from Findlay S. Douglas. July 8—Broke record at Midiothiau, doing tairty-six holes in 158, thirteen under bogey. July 22—Lowered thirty-six hole record at Onwentsia to 156.

July 26—Lowered same record to 153 and won qualifying round. Won the Ravenoaks and Onwentsia cups, also the Lake County cup with Walter Fgan.

Aug. 16—Lowered Exmoor records, with 70, 74—144, in qualifying round and won Western amateur champtonship. championship.

Sept. 10—Won qualifying round in 80, 80, 82—212, and the national amateur championship at Bal

After the Olympic Egan will have a rest until the intercollegiate tournament at Myopia, Oct. 18-22. He won the college championship in 1902, but lost in the second round last fall to W. C. Chick, also of Harvard.

round last fall to W. C. Chick, also of Harvard.

Already there is a controversy on as to the right of the Olympic committee to bestow the title of champion of the world on the winner. The affirmative is summed up very forcibly by the Golfers' Magazine of Chicago:

The Olympic golf championship will be held, and the winner be the actual, bona fide champion of the world. Notice of this tourney has been sent broadcast to every country on the globe, and if the golfers of Great Britain and New York do not care to compete for the valued title, they at least should not attempt to belittle the glory of victory of him who fights and wins the battle.

No one questions the absolute right to the title in every other Olympic contest, and it is absurd to make the single exception of the victor in the golf tournament.

On the negative side, the most caustic of the debaters is the Irish Golfer, which says: the debaters is the Irish Golfer, which says:

The Olympic Association may call the golf competition which it promotes the world's championship, or "The Supremacy of the Utmost Sidereal Horizon." or any other high sounding sitie which rings sweetly in American ears; nevertheless, a grandiose title cannot, per sr., give prestige to a meeting. It is only the recognition of the importance of the meeting, recognition in the form of the majority of the greatest golfers taking part, year after year, that can give pressige. A golf tournament, if it is to be seriously regarded as the world's championship, must be under the control of the representatives of the old and famous golf clubs, and it must take place upon a course approved of by them as a proper test of the game.

The women's national championship, for which the entries close with Secretary Morgan on Oct. 3, will be a greater attraction than usual through the many added events arranged by the Merion members. The programme as arranged for the week is: gramme as arranged for the week is:

Baseball Notes.

Jack Chesbro has won his last seven games. He has not run foul of defeat since Aug. 27, when St. Louis, with Sudhoff pitching, turned the trick.

Lumiey's extra base hit record includes nine four baggers, eighteen three baggers and twenty-three two baggers—seventy-one extra bases.

The Pittsburgs are the only team from which McGraw's men have not won more games than they have lost, and they are ited with the Pirates. Four games remain to be played between the two. If the New York Nationals make a good showing against the Western teams, which come East this week, they are quite likely to beat Pittsburg's 1902 percentage of .741.

Players and speciators are getting their fill of 1902 percentage of .741.

Players and spectators are getting their fill of double headers. It would not matter if a few of them were dispensed with, except where some position is at stake, in playing out the full schedule. Any team wants all the pitchers it can get and a few more in the present double header epidemic.

Any team wants an tenteners it can get and a few more in the present double header epidemic.

In his last three games Pitcher Dougherty of the Parkville Field Club of Flatbush has allowed his opponents only one hit, and in yesterday's game with the Spooner F. C. he struck out sixteen men. One hit by opponents in three straight games is an extraordinary record. The opposing teams were semi-professionals and fairly strong.

Chicagos Defeat the Cincinnatis in a Game of Seventeen Innings. CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—The most remarkable game seen in years at the West Side Park was played to-day, Chicago and Cincinnati battling for seventeen innings. The locals scored in the first inning and the Reds in the sixth. After this the teams fought des perately. It was not a pitchers' battle, both clubs frequently getting men on the bases but failing to get them home. In the seven-teenth Kling went out and Briggs singled. Slagle hit safely and Casey was hit by the ball. Barry flied to Sebring and McCarthy singled, ending the game. The score:

A Message From Dr. H. H. KANE

BLOOD POISON

No matter HOW ONTRACTED: no matter in WHAT STAGE: no matter how many have tried and falled to cure you; no matter how discouraged, disheartened or disgusted you may be, COME TO ME. The more you are discouraged the more you have been deceived, the more YOU NEED ME.

I want to have a frank and confidential talk or correspondence with you. IT WILL COST YOU NOTHING.

CURED OUT TOU

If your case is incurable I will tell you so frankly. Send for my new 180 pp. Medical Book. FREE to all honest inquirers, and read the article.
